Nearly all the money bet went at the odds of two to one in Jeffries' favor. The reason given for so little betting is generally conceded that the betting public had very little confidence in Corbett's chances.                                                                                                         |

BILL NOT QUASHED.

Miller's Futile Attempt to Escape Prosecution in Bribery Case.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.-United States Judge Edward B. Thomas to-day denied a motion of George F. Miller to quash the indictment found against him for bribery. Miller was indicted with Congressman Edmund N. Driggs, the indictment against the former charging him with paying Driggs certain drafts aggregating $3,725 for the congressman's aid in procuring a contract from the United States government with the E. J. Bradt-Dent Company for cash registers. Miller alleged that the indictment did not state among other things when the alleged contract with the Postoffice Department was produced by Driggs. He also claimed that the testimony given by himself before the grand jury did not show that he knew that Driggs was a member of Congress at the time he made the admitted deals with him and alleged that Driggs had not in fact qualified as a member of Congress at that time. John Carter, the well-known skipper of King Edward's Brittannia, believes that Shamrock III is able to beat the Reliance, but hopes that the managers will speedily make up their minds definitely regarding the trim of the boat and her canvas. Ben Parker, captain of Emperor William's Meteor III, says; "The fleet-footed Shamrock will win." Capt. Archie Hogarth, who sailed the Shamrock I, is similarly confident, "provided the weather suits her, and what smis her is a smart breeze with a good sea on." Captain Sycamore, skipper of Shamrock II during the America's cup races in 1901, sits on the fence on account of the in-andout form shown by the challenger during Football More Promis- the trial races.
